(Andre Gide)*

HEART – Help Educate Roma People Together - is a partnership between Brasov and London Borough of Redbridge, which aims to develop a better environment for the Roma children and teenagers using intercultural approach.

The key is understanding the history, culture and language of the Roma community. The experience accumulated until now shows that the inclusion of students from different cultures breaks barriers and the efficient practice means that students can acknowledge their own identity and therefore adults, teenagers and children can feel included and motivated.

- Project targets:
- Establish links between local authorities in Redbridge and Brasov
 - Exchange similar experiences
 - Find better ways to communicate efficiently with Roma children and parents
 - Raise the level of sensibility and aspiration of local authorities, schools, parents and students

- Project activities:
- Exchanges between partner institutions, with the purpose of trading experience
 - Meetings with the public institutions’ and local authorities’ officials
 - Intercultural education trainings
 - Implementing, monitoring and evaluating educational activities and extracurricular activities for students
